

1.1E

We have hunted many animal species to extinction. But now there is a plan to reintroduce some of those animals into the countryside. In the UK there are environmentalists who want to bring back wolves to Scotland.

Of course, there have been protests. Farmers are worried about their livestock. And many people are frightened of wolves because of stories and horror movies.

It is important to fight this fear before reintroducing wolves. People are not in danger because wolves are wary of humans.