

G4

1. Wolves living close to humans are often considered potentially dangerous.
2. In some countries, the government pays a reward for each wolf killed.
3. When studying the behaviour of wild wolves, biologists found that wolves are very social animals.
4. Knowing very little about wolves, most people are likely to fear the animal.
5. People earning money from protecting wild animals help the fight against poaching in African countries.
6. After investigating / Having investigated the trafficking of elephant tusks for months, the police finally arrested a group of poachers.
7. Poachers caught selling rhino horns or elephant tusks face life imprisonment.
8. If killed for their valuable horns at the current rate, rhino will become extinct soon.