

221B Psychology 13th of March Paper 2 PoHR Final Mock Feedback

General: You have improved since the abnormal final mock, but still I got a couple of answers that didn't address the questions directly. Carefully read the question and answer it directly.

To what extent does the sociocultural approach contribute to the understanding of personal relationships? Most of the responses were good on this one. However, some of the responses veered away from question a bit. Quote from the markscheme: It is appropriate and useful for candidates to address biological and/or cognitive factors in order to address the command term "to what extent". Some of you overdid this a bit. You focused a bit too much on the biological and cognitive factors, forgetting the focus of the question, sociocultural approach. However, you were able to pick great contents and studies.

Discuss one or more ethical considerations in studies investigating group dynamics.

Although you have improved, I still must give the same feedback. You need to DESCRIBE and EXPLAIN one or more ethical considerations specifically. If you chose, say deception, as your ethical consideration, you must describe and explain what deception means. I still got answers where the ethical considerations were not addressed well enough, but you have improved! Otherwise, you were able to pick suitable studies and contents for this question and discuss about ethical considerations.

Evaluate one or more research methods used in studies investigating social responsibility. Most of the answers were good on this one, too. You have improved! However, consider the focus point of the question: research methods. Some of you veered away from the question by focusing on ethical consideration. And that was not the focus of the question, although relates to it.
